Short but well made and nicely presented. I could stare at the dancing woman for a long time, quite entrancing. Really demonstrate the incredible potential this platform has for such things.

Would have liked the option to turn off the torch, kinda felt like I had to hold it behind my back at certain points because I wanted to indulge in the beauty around me complete with surrounding darkness.

. Loved the dancing and interactivity in this - Dance IV was the most enjoyable. It would be great to have a menu at the end with the option to replay, or just to go to different scenes/dances!. this isnt a game. you either catch some petals or you watch some creatures dance for a couple minutes. I like the aesthetic, but I was bored out of my mind. It's not really a game, it's an experience and a very short one.. But it's an amazing experience.. I... regret buying this.

I was hoping for a bit more interactivity when it said "Be part of a visually stunning choreography between two dancers, ***one played by you!***", while when I actually tried it I felt like there was someone dancing around me and I was just a stunned mullet standing in the middle trying to grab some glowing thingy away from them. See, to me that's just stunning choreography of one dancer, not two... It's also really short.

On the other hand, if you want to get up close to watch the choreography in a Ballet it's a good experience.. This interactive play is very short (maybe 10 mins for a playthrough), but very pretty, and it's a nice non-gaming take on VR.. This is not a game; it's an immersive art experience. In essence, you're watching play where you are standing on the stage and there is a miniscule amount of interaction with it. What I'm getting at is this: you're going to watch what's going on, not so much play. But don't let that disappoint you. If you watch the behind the scene stuff, they had actual ballet performers and such do the movements.

I recommend this game for one simple reason: I didn't really get why someone would watch ballet until I had the experience of watching it here. La Peri strives to be something different, it takes this new fangled video game device in a direction that really no one ever expected, it's extraordinarily well executed, AND SOMEHOW IT HAS ACHIEVEMENTS.. Very beautiful, albeit short. This isn't really a game. It's more of a VR experience. You'll be done with the game in about 10-15 minutes. I got it on sale for $4.99 and thought it was worth it, but I don't think I'd be happy paying much more than that.. short but great. so beautiful. I was moved to tears. Considering how much effort and polish was put into making this experience, and how new VR is, it was definitely worth the price.

Not much game play, but a good demonstration of how you can record some ballet dancer surround her with special effects and some classical music. Worth buying to demonstrate to your family and friends. It's ok, but given that it's no more than 15 minutes long, the $10 price tag is a little steep.. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YLBFPp94dcU>. Very Short story driven art piece I enjoyed it..VR to me is all about immersion whether in a game or a VR experience and La Peri does that I'm looking forward to future VR titles that are more interactive and deeper involvement within the VR worlds .[?]. It's a short game but engaging and interesting. Maybe worth it when on sale.. I'm honestly not sure what to think. I have no idea what I just experienced. There was a nice very short story. It was very well narrated. I felt like I was chasing the story, rather than the story capturing me. Especially if you go for the roomscale option, because your attention will be directed in different directions. Even at roomscale option, you really only need standing room. The ballet dancing was beautiful. You can tell the ballet dancer whose movements were captured was top notch. But because of the style of the graphics, it's really easy to miss out on the intricacy.

I can recommend this because of the sale price of $2.09 USD on the Black Friday sale. You can tell that a lot of work got put into this project. I just felt like something was missing. I appreciate the art, even if it didn't capture my attention the way I think it should have. I have no idea what was missing, but there is. It's not just that it's only 10 minutes. It's missing oomph ... a reason to care ... a reason why you were there to interact ... something.

Sale Price Rating 6/10. This VR experience is one I've gone through MANY times. It's absolutely beautiful. If you own a Vive, this one cannot be passed up. It's essential.

Keep in mind, this isn't a game. I called it an "experience" because that's the best word I have for it. You don't shoot anything, you don't build anything, you simply watch the story unfold and interact at key points.

This has brought me to tears and I'm not afraid to admit it.
